ABOUT ME

An aspiring developer with intuitive problem-solving skills and a strong desire to work on interesting projects. I possess strong technical skills and an academic background in programming. My passion lies in solving business problems with tailored data and algorithms and communicating complex ideas to non-technical stakeholders. I also possess the flexibility to deliver high-performing solutions. Currently, looking forward to start a career at a reputable organization in order to broaden my skills and knowledge while effectively contributing to the development of the organization.
